

Steve Rawlings

‘Visual Comedy at it’s best!’
The Independent.

‘Hilarious and original, Steve Rawlings mixture of desperation and down beat humour steals the show. His balancing a tray of bottles and glasses on his chin, while giving a running commentary on his difficulties is a classic piece of comic business. This is knife-edge humour which involves the audience in sympathy for a man flogging himself to death for a laugh, and yet knowing that he is perfectly capable of performing the complicated and daring routines he has setup!’

The Times

Steve Rawlings is a truly unique performer who has broken down the barriers between stand up comedy and physical theatre. He has created a wonderfully entertaining blend of comedy, character, and technical ability that keeps an audience on the edge of their seats. His performance is packed full of original and unique routines such as furniture juggling with a chair, table and vase of flowers (he is the only person in the world to do this!), setting fire to his head, and juggling ping pong balls with his mouth. All overlaid with a level of stand up comedy a comedian would be proud of. This unique blend appeals to an incredibly wide range of audiences, from performing to the armed forces in war zones, to families, heads of state and royalty all with equal success!

Steve’s career was launched when he appeared as special guest star in the West end production of ‘Sugar Babies’ alongside Mickey Rooney and Ann Miller. He was then invited to appear in ‘The Royal Variety Performance’ in the presence of Her Majesty The Queen. Since then Steve has appeared on over 100 TV shows worldwide, at St James ‘Palace in honour of fallen service men and woman. Followed by being specially requested to perform at the ‘Summit of the Americas’ - attended by 32 heads of state including Barack Obama.

Most recently Steve’s talents have been much in demand with modern circus. This began when Rolf Knie asked him to appear in the opening season of his new sexy circus ‘Oh La La’. This was followed by appearing with circus Flic Flac in Dortmund, and Kassel.

'It is difficult to find enough superlatives to describe Steve Rawlings, who wowed the audience in his own fabulously eccentric manner. If anyone tells you that the spirit of variety is long dead, you know that person hasn't seen Rawlings perform live. Geniuses are often tortured souls – it's just that he is quite happy to torture himself.'

The Stage 2013

Steve is a big hit worldwide this year performing for Arch Bishop Desmond Tutu at the Cape Town Funny Festival.

Also comedy festivals in: Arosa(Switzerland), Cologne (Germany), Freiberg, (Germany), Tarrega (Spain) and The Low-lands Festival (Holland). From which he developed 'Steve Rawlings Live and Unstable' which toured and sold out in theatres across Europe.

Corporate events take up a large part of Steve's year as his act appeals to a much broader audience than most other performers and he can perform fluently in German, Spanish and French with other languages to a lesser degree. He has worked for most of the world's biggest companies including: Glaxo, Ford, Avis, Shell, BMW, Hilton International and many more ...

He has over 100 major television appearances to his name. The latest of which will be The Slammer, BBC due to air November.

Other TV appearances include:

Stars In Der Manege.
The Olympia - in Paris with host Patrick Sebastien.
The Paul O'Grady Show.
The Jack Dee Show.
Live at the Empire.
Xchange.
Saturday Night Live.
You Bet.
How do they do that.
The Big Stage.
Live at Jongleurs.
Le Plus Grande Cabaret Du Monde - France.
Un Dos Tres, - Spain,
Levanta.Te E Ri, Portugal.
Rayman is Laat - Holland.
Traumtanzer, - Germany.
'Cindy Aus Marzahn Und Die Jungen Wilden.'

And many more.....

